ESSUGGEST Reporting Handbook

How to flag content that breaks the Community Guidelines, and what happens after you do.

Why Reporting Matters?

ESSUGGEST relies on students to help flag content that crosses the line, moderators can't see everything, and a quick report is often the fastest way to get something addressed.

What You Can Report

- Harassment, threats, or personal attacks.
- Hate speech or identity-based attacks.
- Spam or off-topic promotional content.
- Sharing someone's private information without consent.
- Suspected misinformation presented as fact.
- Anything else that breaks the Community Guidelines.

How to Report a Post or Comment

Every suggestion, poll, and comment have a report option attached to it.

- Open the post or comment you want to report.
- Select the report/flag option and choose the reason that best fits.
- Add a short note with any context that would help a moderator understand the issue.
- Submit the report and you'll get a confirmation that it was received.

What Happens After You Report

Reports are reviewed by the moderation team. Reported content is not automatically removed while under review, since not every report results in a violation being found, this keeps the process fair to the original poster.

You won't always be notified of the outcome for privacy reasons, but if the content is removed, its author is informed of which guideline it violated.

Appeals

If your own content was removed and you believe it was a mistake, you can reply to the notification you received or email essuggest@gmail.com explaining why you think the decision should be reconsidered.

Urgent or Safety Concerns

If a post involves an immediate safety concern rather than a routine guideline violation, don't wait on the in-app report, instead contact essuggest@gmail.com directly or your campus's Human Resources Management Office right away.
